

The University of California, Davis, School of Medicine, Department of Internal Medicine is recruiting for a full-time academic faculty at the Assistant/Associate Professor level in the Clinical X series in the Division of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine. Appointees to the Clinical X series are required to participate in teaching, university/public service, patient care/professional services, and creative work that can include bench, clinical, or translational research. The candidate will join an already established multidisciplinary group focused on taking care of a large cohort of patients with pulmonary vascular disease and with PHA center designation.

Candidates must possess an M.D. degree and be ABIM board certified in Pulmonary Diseases and Critical Care Medicine. Candidates must be eligible for a California medical license. Experience in clinical care, clinical and procedural teaching of medical students, residents, and fellows, and a strong commitment to translational research in pulmonary vascular disease is required. Demonstrated skill in the care of complex pulmonary disease and experience in all aspects of patient based research in pulmonary vascular disease is desired. The capacity to obtain external grant funding for programmatic activities is strongly preferred. The ability to work cooperatively and collegially within a diverse environment is required.

Candidates can expect to practice in a stimulating academic environment and teach trainees at multiple levels on the inpatient pulmonary consult service, at the Sacramento Veteran's Administration hospital, and in outpatient pulmonary clinics. Candidates may also attend in the medical intensive care unit, on the critical care consult service, and in the Cardio-Thoracic and Neurosurgical intensive care units.

Qualified applicants should upload a letter of interest, five references and their curriculum vitae online at <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF01967>

For full consideration, applications must be received by December 20, 2017. This position will be opened until filled but no later than June 30, 2018.

This recruitment is conducted at the assistant/associate rank. The resulting hire will be at the assistant/associate rank, regardless of the proposed appointee's qualifications.

Under Federal law, the University of California may employ only individuals who are legally able to work in the United States as established by providing documents as specified in the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986.
